THE peculiar taint or infection, which we call Scrofula, lurks in the constitutions of one in five of mankind. It is either produced or is provoked by an enfeebled, diseased state of the blood, whenever that fluid is found incompetent to sustain the vital forces in their vigorous action, and leaves the system to fall into disorder and decay. If the scrutinous examination is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered digestion from unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and above all, by the scrofulous infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be dared with who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children." The diseases it originates take various names, according to the organs it attacks. In the lungs, Scrofula produces tubercles, and finally Consumption; in the glands, swellings which suppurate and become ulcerous sores; in the stomach and bowels, dangerous which produce indigestion, dyspepsia, and liver complaints; on the skin, eruptive and cutaneous affections. These, all having the same origin, require the same remedy, viz., purification and invigoration of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers cease you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health, with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is compounded from the most effectual antidotes that medical science has discovered for the afflicting diseases, and for the cure of the disorders it entails. That is its superior to any other remedy yet devised, known by all who have given it a trial. That it does combine virtues truly extraordinary in their effect upon this class of complaints, is in hospitality proven by the great multitude of publicly known and remarkable cures it has made of the following diseases: King's Evil, or Glandular Swellings, Tumors, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches and Sores, Erysipelas, Rose or St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Coughs from tuberculous deposits in the lungs, White Swellings, Debility, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Syphilis and Mercurial Infections, Mercurial Diseases, and all Weaknesses, and, in deed, the whole train of complaints that arise from impurity of the blood. Minute reports of individual cases may be found in Ayer's American Almanac, which is furnished to the druggists for gratuitous distribution, wherein may be found the directions for its use, and some of the remarkable cures which it has made. Even all other remedies had failed to afford relief. These cases are purposely taken from all sections of the country, in order that every reader may have access to some one who can speak to him of its benefit from personal experience. Scrofula oppresses the poor more than others, and thus leaves its victims far more subject to disease and its fatal results, who are healthy constitutions. Hence it is that so shortens and their greatly shortens, the average duration of human life. The experience of these denied nations has for many years in effecting a remedy adequate to its cure. This we offer to the public under the name of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, although it is compounded of many vegetable remedies, with which exceed the best Sarsaparilla in alterative power. By its use you may protect yourself from the fearful danger of these disorders lurking in the blood, purge out the corruptions that, if left there, will breed certain disease, and preserve the health, vigor and vitality of the blood. Purify the blood, and these dangerous distempers cease you. With feeble, foul, or corrupted blood, you cannot have health, with that "life of the flesh" healthy, you cannot have scrofulous disease.

They are crying to you for help every blood streak is a voice. Hear their cry, and save yourself by saving them. Give them a drink of POOR RICHARD'S EYE WATER, morning and night. This is all they ask, and they will positively keep your body out of the prison house of disease. They do not want to be time in explanations. Try them and prove them. A Remarkable Cure in Bangor.

I, W. H. PRITCHARD, do certify that my wife Esther E. Pritchard was born deaf from childhood, caused by measles. One year since a lump appeared on the back of her ear. It increased to the size of a large bee. Becoming completely stunned about the process it was making I took my wife (Mrs. M. G. BROWN, at the Exchange. She told me she could remove it, and restore strengthen her eyes. Mrs. B. applied her medicine as given to all in the evening, and at nine o'clock the lump was gone. We could scarce more of it. My wife can now see people walking on the other side of the street which she could never do before. She has always had headache when riding in a carriage. Yesterday, when riding in a carriage, she had no return of headache. My own eyes were treated five or three times by Mrs. Brown. I find them much strengthened. W. H. PRITCHARD.

The Opposition to the Administration Democrats with the Southern Rebels. It has been remarkable change, and papers successfully seeded that many of the leading papers of the Buchanan party in the Northwestern States to rebel against the government in case Abraham President was elected, and the enemy in them went so far as to proclaim aid or incite aid to the traitors in bringing movement. In point of fact, many of the most influential in the Cabinet of Buchanan acted in public and private movements, and the influence of their newspaper organs outside; and they now have a share in accomplishing treasonable mischief in the land soon by the alarm of panic and public distrust which met the election of Lincoln, and the prompt action of the Southern rebels in making arms. Of the fact that the rebels expected the assistance of the democratic party of the North, there is now no doubt. The great body of the party stood by the government loyally,—but that assistance on the rebels was at emptied by some of the managers—prominent in the Cabinet as well as in it—becomes every day more and more a matter of proof. One motive of rendering aid to the rebels was to influence the Northern mind, if possible, against the incoming administration, as being the ideas of changing the country into peril and the attempting to "coerce" the rebels—and to get up "anti-war" meetings and mobs among the opulent merchants of New York, and other large cities. It will be seen that these violent outrages in Northern cities against the war were concerted months and months after the commencement of the rebellion, and are even now expected by them, if the old democratic leaders get control of the elections again. The reason why disunion and rebellion was looked for in the early part of the struggle has just become clear, in consequence of the exposures in private correspondence of the plantation. Hon. Jacob Thompson, of Miss. ship—Thompson having been, as is well known, a member of Buchanan's Cabinet. Besides other it was in this precious year of treason, as may from Mr. E. W. Hutchinson—New York's prominent democratic leader, and private Secretary to Fernando Wood. Two of the date, January 10, 1861, a date previous to the inauguration outbreak of secession in South Carolina and Georgia, but previous to the attack upon Fort Sumter. The party then to be play by the democratic leaders was to get up anti-war meetings of the North, and thus encourage the rebellious movement which might also strengthen either by the old or the new administration. The letter itself is proof enough of this, as will be seen by a few extracts. The first one are plainly dated:

Winder House,
New York, January 17, 1861.

My Dear Sir—I mailed you a report of a speech recently delivered by me in this place before an anti-Coercion meeting of our working-men. The meeting was a great success in numbers and enthusiasm, far beyond the hopes of those who originated it—Marshal Rynders, Mayor Wood, and myself. In a few days we will have a great demonstration, if possible, and my friends in Brooklyn are also moving.

You will see by the papers in the Herald that every few days our meetings is flooded with Anti-Secession addresses. They are the answer of the greatest anxiety and consternation to the enemies and a cry and mystery to the general public. Groups of people gather and discuss passages, wherever they are found, some attributing it to New York Jews, others a conflict generally among the leaders, but certainly imagine that they are looking on a volcano. And this is the effect of those few sentiments of their own, expressed, and without means to effect it, on a community of whose sentiments by electing our Mayor, Recorder, Chief of Police, Harbor Master, Street Commissioner, Superintendent of Repairs, Keeper of the Penitentiary, Keeper of the Alms House, Coroners, Corporation Counsel, Clerk of the Common Council, Clerk of the Board of Aldermen, Clerk of the Board of Assistants, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Clerk of the Board of Apportionment, Clerk of the Board of Assessors, Clerk of the Board of Revision, Clerk of the Board of Education, Clerk of the Board of Health, Clerk of the Board of Police, Clerk of the Board of Public Works, Clerk of the Board of Water Commissioners, Clerk of the Board of Water Supply, Clerk of the Board of Water Works, Clerk of the Board of Water Supply, Clerk of the Board of Water Works, Clerk of the Board of Water Supply, Clerk of the Board of Water Works

Whereas on the 22d day of September, in the year of our Lord, 1862, a Proclamation was issued by the President of the United States, containing, among other things, the following, to wit:

That on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty three, all persons held as slaves within any State or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforth and forever free, and the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of said persons.

And the Executive will on the first day of January aforesaid by Proclamation, designate the States and parts of States, if any, in which the people thereof respectively shall then be in rebellion against the United States, and the fact that any State, or the people thereof shall on that day be, in good faith represented in the Congress of the United States by members chosen thereto at elections wherein a majority of the qualified voters of such State shall have participated, and in the absence of stronger counteracting testimony shall be deemed conclusive evidence that such State and the people thereof are not then in rebellion against the United States.

Now, therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, by virtue of the power in me vested as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, in time of actual armed rebellion against the authority and government of the United States, and as a fit and necessary war measure for suppressing said rebellion, do, on this first day of January, in the year of our Lord 1863, and in accordance with my purpose so to do, publicly proclaimed for the full period of 100 days from the day first above mentioned, order and designate as the States and parts of States wherein the people thereof respectively are this day in rebellion against the United States the following, to wit:

Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, (except the parishes of St Bernard, Plaquemine, Jefferson, St John, St Charles, St James, Ascension, Assumption, Lafourche, Terrebonne, St Mary, Iberville, and Orleans, including the city of New Orleans) Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia (except the counties designated as West Virginia and also the counties of Berkeley, Accomac, Northampton, Elizabeth City, York, Princess Anne, and Norfolk, including the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth) and which excepted parts are for the time being, are not specifically left in insurrection against the United States.

And by virtue of the power, and for the purpose aforesaid, I do order and declare that all persons held as slaves within said designated States, and parts of States, are, and henceforward shall be free; and that the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of said persons.

I hereby enjoin upon the people declared to be free to abstain from all violence unless in necessary self-defence, and I recommend to them that, in all cases when allowed, they labor faithfully for reasonable wages, and I further declare and make known that such persons of suitable condition will be received into the armed service of the United States to garrison forts, positions, stations and other places, and to man vessels of all sorts in said service, and upon this act, sincerely believed to be an act of justice warranted by the Constitution upon military necessity I invoke the considerate judgment of mankind and the gracious favor of Almighty God.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and of the independence of the United States of America, the eighty-seventh.

(Signed,) ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President:

WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

New York, 1st.

The steamer S R Spaulding, from New Orleans, has arrived. Among the passengers are General Butler and staff, excepting Colonel Jos H Bell and Captain John Clark, who remain.

General Butler prior to leaving New Orleans gave a reception at the City Hall, where hundreds of citizens and officers waited upon him. General Butler also issued a farewell address to the citizens in which he says he leaves with great consciousness of carrying with him the sympathies of the humblest loyal under the control of the rebellion, of the slave, quite as much as those of the sneers and curses of the opposite class. He adds with saying that months of experience have confirmed the conviction with which he entered upon the command, that the existence of slavery is incompatible with the safety of ourselves, and of the Union.

The Empire Parish was fired into while Brigadier Gen Weitzel was reviewing a portion of his troops on the Mannery plantation by guerillas, killing C R Hill, assistant engineer, and seriously wounding W J Reed, a New York merchant, and three others.

On the 29th General Banks issued an address to the people of Louisiana, in which he says that the President's proclamation is not an act of emancipation. It is an edict, fixing the status and establishing the rights of persons held as slaves within the States designated in the President's proclamation, says:

It is manifest that the changes suggested by proclamation do not take place at any precise period, and General Banks calls upon all persons, citizens and aliens, to govern themselves accordingly.

All previous observations will be for the present suspended to prevent any disturbance of the public peace. Slaves are advised to remain upon the plantations until their privileges and definitely established, resting assured that true interest of the government cannot fail to be secured them.

Gen. Banks gives instructions to officers to secure the strictest discipline among the troops.

Attention is also called to the act of Congress, forbidding the return of slaves by the army. The war is not waged for the overthrow of slavery, but to restore the constitutional relations between the United States and each of the States. If slavery is to be preserved war must cease and the future constitutional relations must be established for no military purpose. The event of the ultimate decision of the war will govern the preservation of slavery. The continuance of the war will leave no other permanent track of rebellion but the extinction of slavery.

Contest, in addition to its own force, strength and consolidation, brotherly affection. It is a peaceless nationality that has not tested its strength against domestic enemies. Success of local interest narrows the destiny of a people, which is followed by secession, poverty and degradation. The triumph of national interests widens the scope of human history, and is attended with peace, prosperity and power. It is out of such contests that great nations are born.

Can Louisiana be less than a State?

Let us fulfill the condition of this last great crisis, and become a united, grand Union, with power enough to govern ourselves, and strength enough to stand against the world united."

Up to the time of the sailing of the steamer, nothing had transpired as to the intended movements of Gen Banks but it was known that a campaign had been marked out, with Baton Rouge as a basis of operations.

Nothing new from Vicksburg or Port Hudson.

Louisville, Ky, 1st.

General Rosecrans captured Murfreesboro on Tuesday morning, and now occupies it.

The rebels retreated to Tullahoma. They made but slight resistance.

General Rosecrans sent a wagon train which was following. It was captured by the rebels under Morgan.

The startling report which reached here about midnight, and caused considerable commotion throughout the city of the appearance of Forrest in the direction of Salt River, with a large body of cavalry is entirely untrue.

New York, 1st.

Gen Butler with his staff, also Mrs Butler, stopped in this city to day. He leaves for Washington tomorrow, if not ordered, at the request of the President.

Concord, N H, 1st.

The Republican State Convention held here today, nominated Joseph A Gilmore of Concord for Governor, and J Bellow of Somersworth, for Railroad Commissioner.

The resolutions adopted eloquently appeal to the people of New Hampshire to remain firm and loyal to the Republic. The second resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That a resolute, unflinching prosecution of the war for the annihilation of the rebellion, is necessary to the existence and perpetuation of the government, and we will heartily support the present National Administration in using the most vigorous and decisive measures to effect that object.

Rebels and Rebels. The New York papers are filled with accounts of frauds which some members of the Gothamite have been perpetrating on the government. The government ordered the "whiskey arrest" of some of the guilty parties, while the investigation was secretly going on that can result in the discovery of the scoundrels. And these arrests are some of those about which the anti-administration papers have raised such a howl. These rascally defrauders are the martyrs on whom these journals have poured out their compassion.—Troy Journal.

The Iron Clads. Orders have been received at Jersey City from Washington to push forward with all possible speed the work on the Ericsson battery Weehawken, that she may be ready for sea at an early day. Large gangs of men are at work on the vessel day and night, in order to have her completed at the earliest possible moment. The other iron clad vessels building there are also being constructed as rapidly as possible. The Camanche, intended for the Pacific coast, will be finished in about four weeks.

The Story About California. General Albert Sydney Johnson, killed at Shiloh, concerted a nice plan to possess the secessionists of California at the beginning of the rebellion—Harney in command at San Francisco. At a given time the secessionists were to take the forts with his cavalry, and seize 60,000 stand of arms shipped here by Floyd for the very purpose. San Francisco at their mercy must have succumbed, and the rebels would then have had a port to which to fit out privateers, and would likewise have obtained an control of the vast treasures of the State. The fact was either suspected or known at Washington. Brig. Gen. E V Sumner was appointed to the command in California, and was privily put on his guard, arriving at San Francisco without previous indication of his coming. He walked, unannounced, to the office of Johnson, informed him that he was his successor, showed him his papers, and demanded immediate possession. The astonished rebel had no alternative but to comply. In half an hour after all the guns of the fort were run in on the land side and heavily shotted. The same evening the 60,000 stand of arms at Benicia were secured. This brilliant coup d'etat saved for El Dorado State.

The Richmond Despatch has the following from the south side of James river:

On Thursday last three Yankee gunboats ascended the Nottoway and Blackwater rivers, but were driven back by a force under Gen Pryor. They were subsequently reinforced by two others, and at last accounts the five were lying ten miles below Franklin in the Chowan, and supposed to be preparing for another attack.

The money market in Richmond on the 23d is reported as follows:

Gold sells 90 a 2 25 premium; silver, $1 60 a 2 00. Virginia and North Carolina bank notes 25 a 30c; South Carolina and Georgia 27½ a 30 cents premium. The above figures represent the buying rates; the extremes the selling rates.

Provisions are quoted as follows:

Wheat $4 to 4 50; corn meal $3 50; flour $20 to 25; bacon, 70c.; coffee 35 to 50 per lb; sugar 30c; molasses $4 per gal; salt 66 per lb; butter $1 25; chickens, $1 10 to 1 25; candles 75 to 80c per lb; lard 60 and 70c per lb; potatoes $4 50 per bush; apples $4 to 5 per barrel.

A woman convicted of theft, in Wednesday, Connecticut, by several persons from several towns, who, after robbing at Artemus Ward says, more than them (three of them, understood to reside in Canterbury or adjoining towns) in the town and ran away on said several times and conducting themselves in a manner that created annoyance. They were brought before Justice Dow and fined, each, $10 and costs, which they refused to pay, and were committed to jail.

Curious Will Case. The London Court Journal has the following account of a singular transaction which recently took place in the north of England.

It is said that James, the first Earl of Lonsdale, who, from his arbitrary will and ungovernable temper, was nicknamed "Jill Unbeknown," had a violent quarrel with his cousin and heir-male, Sir W Lowther, of Lowther, to whom he had bequeathed his enormous estates, and in whose favor he had obtained a remainder of the barony and viscounty. He drove in a fury to his lawyers, demanded his will from them that he might destroy it, and set off in a paroxysm of anger for Lowther Castle. What with growing vent to his rage which with him amounted almost to madness, and what with a fit of gout which attacked him on the journey, when he arrived at the Castle he was almost senseless. He died the next day. No will was found, such was his fury with his cousins that he had kept his word, and destroyed it. Sir William Lowther succeeded to the titles and certain entailed estates, but the heiress to by far the greater portion of the deceased lord's wealth was his sister, the Countess of Darlington, mother of the late Duke of Cleveland. Lord Darlington was sent for and entered into possession. How long he remained so we have forgotten, but we think it was about three months. At the end of that time various odds and ends on the premises were doomed to destruction. Among other things, the old travelling chariot was considered not worth retaining. It had been hastily unpacked in the confusion of the Earl's arrival in a dying state; it had been hastily wheeled into one of the coach houses, and had there remained unthought of ever since. It would have been ungallant to sell it, and so it was ordered to be burned. It was brought out and the work of destruction commenced, but on being broken up for the purpose, it was found there was a false bottom, and in it lay concealed the will! The finale to the story is equally wonderful. The very night of this extraordinary discovery that part of the wash-house where the travelling carriage had stood, caught fire and burnt to the ground, with everything they contained. Twelve hours longer possession, and half Cumberland and Westmoreland would now belong to the Vanes, instead of the Lowthers.

Foreign Feeling. The Paris correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser says it is believed there by many persons that the French government intends to recognize Texas, if it has not already done so, the offer of mediation between the two contending parties in America. The course pursued by the government journals certainly gives room or such a conclusion, and it is understood that M Mercier, at Washington, favors this action on the part of his government. Although not inclined to credit to the full extent these statements, the correspondent admits that the indications for the movement are that while a better feeling is growing up toward us in England, the contrary is true of France.

As respects England, we are satisfied from the tone of the press that a better feeling is growing up toward us very rapidly. The aristocratic organs remain as hostile as ever, but there is a great change, for he better going on in the religious community and among men of liberal views. It seems to be due to a clearer conviction that the rebellion is nothing but a pro slavery conspiracy, and that our Government is preparing in deed with it in that light. Expressions to the effect are emanating from various religious bodies. Mr Leatham, M P, has recently address ed his constituents, using strong views against the rebels, and his speech has met with a very favorable reception. There is every reason to believe that this improvement will permanently extend itself until it will have a marked effect on British policy.—Boston Journal.

How our Prisoners Found that there were no Union Men in Dixie. An Indiana soldier captured at Shiloh, and recently exchanged, writes a history of his captivity. The following is an incident upon his arriving at Memphis (then in rebel hands):

A lot of good talking, mixed with the requisite amount of 'cheek,' received by Sergeant Eddy, well known among the Chicago typos, and myself the privilege of a walk around town in company with a couple of German Home Guards, who carried two of Frémont's 'needle guns,' for our protection. Our first stopping place was the Appeal office, where we found eight or ten 'compos,' and a score or so of 'secesh' flags. All hands intensely bitter against the north, 'except' all over, and every man of them born outside of Dixie. One of them, I forget his name, but shall never forget the man, asked,

"Do you find as much Union sentiment as you expected?"

I answered that I felt sure that such sentiment everywhere existed.

"You are mistaken," said he, "there is not today a Union man in Memphis—not one."

Glancing at the guards, I saw certain signs of nervousness and anger, and thinking that perhaps in the heat of debate we had said too much, and should have a difficulty with them, my friend and I made preparations to leave. Scarcely had the door closed behind us, when one of the guards brought his piece down with a thump on the iron floor, exclaiming:

"Dare tell no Union sentiment here, eh! Oh, no! We axe all tamed 'secesh.' You comes out me, I show you. We all lay down our lives for the Southern Confederacy. Oh, yes. We be glad to (?)."

We followed the guard to the outskirts of the town, and entered a blacksmith shop, where working at the forge, we recognized a couple of Chicago boys—they, too, belonged to the home guard. A sharp lookout was kept at the front and back doors; presently the coast was announced clear, and then you should have seen us making good time over back fences and through alleys, until we reached the abiding place of our guide—entering, a buxom German girl placed chairs for us to be seated.

"Ernst," said the guard, as soon as he had recovered so he got breath to speak, "Ernst, here is a couple of tarr'ed Yankees, you show dem we is good 'secesh,' eh!" "Yes, I show dem," and the "Frau" placed a table in the centre of the room and then disappeared. Presently the hissing of the tea kettle is heard, and in a few minutes coffee, which cost $1 25 per pound, bread made from flour costing 20 per barrel, and sausages from meat proportionately high, was served up to us. Our lamentations were filled and then "Frau" grumbled because we would not speak more. They were poor and we could not rob them. While we were eating the guards amused themselves by taking the meat spring out of their gun locks and burning them in the stove. As we shook hands at our friendly house door, they whispered, "We are all same secesh." We made arrangements with them to for a disguise, to escape, but before they were again on duty he "show" was started for a new place.

An eccentric friend of ours stepped into a store in a village which shall be nameless, where some "colored brethren" were doing a little trading. "Ah, Mr ——," said our friend, "you have your cousins a-1 now!" The young Ethiopian said nothing, but looks. Our friend stepped out, but in a few moments returned, after the white customers had departed. "Please you will not take any offence at what I remarked just now," said he. "Oh, no," says the shopman, "I never take offence at anything you say." "Glad to hear it," replied the gentleman, "the niggers are in need of the d— [illegible] soaped, merely by dropping a few small bills.
